Odom disappointed with court decision

Agriculture and Forestry Commissioner Bob Odom expressed considerable disappointment in a Baton Rouge district judge's ruling Aug. 1, regarding the testing and removal of imported seafood, believed to be adulterated with banned antibiotics, before it reaches consumers.

"My warning is this: consumers beware. In this new situation, if the seafood you are eating is imported from China or certain other countries it could be more likely to contain substances banned by the FDA," Odom said. "Louisiana is a leader in protecting consumers from adulterated food. We stopped the sale of suspect Chinese seafood because of possible fluoroquinolone contamination almost two months before the FDA followed suit. The testing of that food revealed that some of the suspect seafood was, in fact, adulterated with fluoroquinolones and chloramphenicol.

"Evidently federal regulators believe we know what we're doing and I find it ironic that the day the Secretary of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services comes to Louisiana looking into problems with imported food, our food safety efforts are thrown out the window."

When this ruling goes into effect, the regulations requiring seafood from China and Vietnam to be tested in an approved lab and proven to be free of fluoroquinolone and chloramphenicol contamination before they can be sold will be unenforceable. Prior to the ruling, inspectors from the Department of Agriculture and Forestry routinely visited retail locations and cold storage facilities to make sure the testing was being conducted and the seafood was free of any banned substances before the product was released into the market place. Odom is awaiting the precise wording of the ruling and hopes the ruling will not allow seafood that contains the antibiotics fluoroquinolone and chloramphenicol to be sold in Louisiana.

The attorney representing Odom and the department argued LDAF did in fact have the authority to hold and test seafood and also advised that the department is operating under a type of cooperative endeavor agreement with the Department of Health and Hospitals specifically authorized by the state constitution. The agreement provides the disputed authority even if Odom didn't already have that authority.

"I vow to continue fighting for Louisiana consumers and all seafood producers because this situation is simply wrong. Our people deserve to feel safe at the dinner table and moms and dads across the state should be confident in the safety of the food they feed their children.

"Seafood producers in the United States are held to a high standard of safety and anyone who exports seafood to this country should meet the same standards. This new situation not only jeopardizes the health and well-being of our citizens, but it could negatively impact the bottom line for our seafood producers if consumers stop or reduce their buying of seafood altogether because they are afraid it is unsafe. This is exactly what happened with beef

Commissioner

during the 'mad cow' scare and numerous other similar situations."
